The BTEA and the Building Trades Take on Substance Use and the Opioid Crisis

Join us for a first-of-its-kind conference where we will:

Increase awareness and understanding of substance use disorder in the construction industry

Learn how to recognize substance use on the job site

Hear from experts on best practices for prevention and recovery

Give the opportunity for participants to voice their own concerns/questions on the topic

The week will culminate in a 150-second stand down on job sites around the city to mark the 150 opioid-related deaths per 100,000 construction workers annually.
